EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

This Bill seeks to enact measures for the maintenance of racial harmony in Singapore and to establish a Presidential Council for Racial and Religious Harmony. The measures in the Bill are broadly similar to the measures in the Maintenance of Religious Harmony Act 1990. The Bill is accompanied by a Constitution of the Republic of Singapore (Amendment) Bill.

PART 1PRELIMINARY

Clause 1 relates to the short title and commencement.

Clause 2 is an interpretation provision.

PART 2

ADMINISTRATION

Part 2 (comprising clauses 3 to 7) relates to the administration of the Bill.

A Presidential Council for Racial and Religious Harmony (the Council) is established, and the Schedule makes further provision about the Council. Members of the Council are to be appointed by the President if the President, acting in the President's discretion, concurs with the advice of the Presidential Council for Minority Rights. Appointments to the Council should ensure that the Council comprises representatives of all major racial and religious communities in Singapore and persons who have distinguished themselves in public service or community relations in Singapore.

The functions of the Council are to report on matters relating to the maintenance of racial or religious harmony in Singapore that are referred to the Council by the Minister or by Parliament, and to make recommendations on restraining orders under the Bill or the Maintenance of Religious Harmony Act 1990 (see also Part 5). The Council will take over the functions of the Presidential Council for Religious Harmony, which will be abolished (see clause 49).

Separately, the Minister is empowered to appoint public officers to be competent authorities for the purposes of the Bill. Competent authorities are empowered to obtain information and documents for the purposes of the Bill.

PART 3

RESTRAINING ORDERS
AGAINST RACIAL CONTENT

Part 3 (comprising clauses 8, 9 and 10) provides for racial content restraining orders. The Minister may make a racial content restraining order against a person (X) connected with the commission of acts that cause feelings of enmity, hatred, ill-will or hostility between different races in Singapore. The order may require X to comply with specified measures to stop the creation, communication, distribution or proliferation of content that could cause such feelings. A racial content restraining order has effect for up to 2 years in the first instance, and the Minister may give directions to extend the order for up to 2 years at a time. Failure to comply with a racial content restraining order is an offence.

PART 4

MEASURES AGAINST FOREIGN INFLUENCE

Part 4 contains measures against foreign influence that could affect racial harmony in Singapore.

Division 1 (comprising clauses 11 to 14) defines key concepts used in Part 4.

Division 2 (comprising clauses 15, 16 and 17) relates to the designation of entities for the purposes of Part 4. The competent authority may designate an entity whose objects, purposes or activities include representing or promoting the interests of any race in Singapore, or discussing any issue relating to any race in Singapore. The competent authority must be satisfied that the designation is necessary or expedient to pre-empt, prevent or reduce any foreign influence that may undermine racial harmony in Singapore. The competent authority must inform an entity about a proposed designation; the entity will have an opportunity to make representations. A designation may be cancelled by the competent authority.

Division 3 (comprising clauses 18 to 22) provides for regulations to impose reporting obligations on designated entities. Designated entities will generally be required to report the foreign donations and anonymous donations that they accept; their foreign affiliations; their constitutional arrangements; the composition of their governing bodies; the nationality of the members of their governing bodies; and the nationality of their responsible officers. The regulations may prescribe offences relating to these reporting obligations. Separately, it is an offence to deceitfully withhold from a designated entity any information about donations to the entity, or to knowingly provide false information about donations to the entity.

Division 4 (comprising clauses 23 to 26) imposes basic leadership restrictions on designated entities. More than half of the total number of seats on the governing body of a designated entity must be occupied or held by Singapore citizens; for governing bodies with fewer than 3 seats, all of them must be occupied or held by Singapore citizens. Responsible officers of designated entities must be Singapore citizens or Singapore permanent residents. If a designated entity is in contravention of any of these restrictions, the competent authority may direct the entity to remove the relevant members or officers. A removal direction may be appealed against to the Minister, whose decision is final. If a removal direction against a designated entity is not complied with, the entity commits an offence. Each person who is a member of the governing body of the entity while the removal direction is not complied with also commits an offence.

Division 5 (comprising clauses 27 to 30) provides for stepped-up measures to be imposed under foreign influence restraining orders. The Minister may make a foreign influence restraining order against a designated entity to pre-empt, prevent or reduce any foreign influence that may undermine racial harmony in Singapore and present a threat to public peace and public order in Singapore. The order may include measures against accepting or retaining foreign or anonymous donations, measures against foreign affiliations, measures against non-citizens in general serving on the governing body of the entity, and measures against specified persons (who may be Singapore citizens) serving on the governing body of the entity. A foreign influence restraining order has effect for up to 2 years in the first instance, and the Minister may give directions to extend the order for up to 2 years at a time. If a foreign influence restraining order against a designated entity is not complied with, the entity commits an offence. Each person who is a member of the governing body of the entity while the non-compliance is ongoing also commits an offence. Separately, it is an offence to facilitate a foreign donation prohibited by a foreign influence restraining order.

Division 6 (comprising clauses 31 and 32) contains other provisions. A designated entity must comply with its obligations under Divisions 4 and 5 despite any other written law and its constitutional documents; the entity is protected from any civil or criminal liability to the extent that it is acting in good faith and with reasonable care to comply with those obligations. If the consent or agreement of a person is required for a designated entity to remove the person as a member of its governing body or as a responsible officer, the consent or agreement is deemed to have been given. Finally, the Minister is empowered to exempt a designated entity from all or any of the provisions of Divisions 3 and 4.

PART 5

OVERSIGHT AND REVIEW ARRANGEMENTS FOR RESTRAINING ORDERS

Part 5 (comprising clauses 33 to 37) prescribes oversight and review arrangements for both racial content restraining orders and foreign influence restraining orders.

A restraining order is subject to oversight arrangements under which the order may be cancelled, confirmed without variation or confirmed with variations. After a restraining order is made against a person, copies must be given to the person and the Council, together with the grounds, facts and documents supporting the order. The person may make representations to the Council against the order. The Council must then give its recommendation on the order, and the recommendation will be sent to the President and the Cabinet for the latter to advise the former. If the Cabinet's advice is contrary to the recommendation of the Council, the President may act in his or her discretion and decide whether the order should be cancelled, confirmed without variation or confirmed with variations; otherwise, the President must act in accordance with the Cabinet's advice. A restraining order lapses unless it is confirmed or deemed to be confirmed by the President. The same oversight arrangements apply to a direction to extend a restraining order, except that such a direction may only be confirmed or cancelled but not varied.

Separately, the Minister must review a restraining order at least once every 12 months and may revoke a restraining order at any time. Restraining orders, any cancellation, revocation, variation, extension or confirmation of a restraining order, and recommendations of the Council must be published in the Gazette.

PART 6

OFFENCES RELATING TO RACE

Part 6 (comprising clauses 38 to 41) provides for offences against racial harmony. The new offences are mostly based on the existing offences relating to race in sections 298 and 298A of the Penal Code 1871; the existing offences will be abolished (see clause 52).

Clause 38 defines “conduct” for the purposes of Part 6. Among other things, “conduct” includes conduct occurring outside Singapore.

Clause 39 criminalises conduct that urges the use of force or violence against individuals or groups in Singapore on the basis of race.

Clause 40(1) criminalises conduct that incites feelings of enmity, hatred, ill-will or hostility against, or contempt for or ridicule of, groups in Singapore that are distinguished by race; clause 40(2) criminalises conduct that insults, vilifies, denigrates, threatens or abuses individuals on the basis of their race. It is a defence to prove that the conduct in question was private or domestic in nature; that there was a reasonable expectation that the conduct would not be perceived other than by the parties to the conduct; and, in the case of clause 40(2), that it was not reasonable to expect that the individual concerned would perceive the conduct. It is also a defence to prove that the accused person was acting in good faith to point out and bring about the removal of offensive matters.

Clause 41 empowers the Minister to establish one or more community remedial programmes for persons who have engaged in conduct that is prejudicial to the maintenance of racial harmony in Singapore. Participation in a community remedial programme is not compulsory, but in deciding whether to institute proceedings against a person for an offence under Part 6, the Public Prosecutor may consider whether the person has satisfactorily completed a community remedial programme.

PART 7

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Part 7 (comprising clauses 42 to 47) contains general provisions, including provisions about finality, criminal jurisdiction, composition and making regulations.

PART 8

RELATED AND CONSEQUENTIAL AMENDMENTS

Part 8 (comprising clauses 48 to 54) contains related and consequential amendments. These include amendments to the Penal Code 1871 to delete Chapter 15 (offences relating to race), and amendments to the Maintenance of Religious Harmony Act 1990 to abolish the Presidential Council for Religious Harmony and to align certain provisions of that Act with the provisions of the Bill.

EXPENDITURE OF PUBLIC MONEY

This Bill will involve the Government in extra financial expenditure arising from the operation of the Presidential Council for Racial and Religious Harmony, the administration of the measures against foreign influence, and the implementation of community remedial programmes. The exact amount cannot at present be ascertained.
